3/17/2023	Civil Rights & Religious Liberty	Comments on NPRM	When the government funds faith-based and community-based social service organizations—such as food banks, homeless or domestic violence shelters, job training centers, and elder care providers—it must protect the religious freedom of people who use the services and ensure they can get the help they need. We thank the Biden administration for the Proposed Rule, which takes important steps to restore vital protections for program beneficiaries.	Office of Faith-Based and Neighborhood Partnerships
