1. Right-click on the link above.
2. Save it (choose "Save Target As...") in your computer's fonts folder (c:\Windows\Fonts, c:\Win98\Fonts or c:\WinNT\Fonts).
3. Go to "My Computer" and locate the file.
4. Rename the file to have the extension ".ttf" instead of ".txt".

Windows XP users have had mixed results, but try the following:

1. Save the file to your "Fonts" folder (inside the "Windows" folder) and rename it "chalice_fonts.ttc".

This will give you the capability to insert chalices from your keyboard in your word-processing program if it uses TrueType fonts.
