ACCEPTANCE OF NEW INDEPENDENT AFFILIATE

By consensus, the following organization was accepted for Independent Affiliate status effective immediately and continuing through June 30, 2004:

Unitarian Universalists for Social Justice

MODERATOR’S REPORT

Moderator Gini Courter described the methods by which she intended to chair the Board; said that she had asked the President of the District Presidents’ Association, Lynda Bluestein, to take notes from the meeting to be put on the UUA website; and informed the trustees that Charles Redd was ill and would not be able to attend the meeting.

PRESIDENT’S REPORT

President William Sinkford noted that the two large banners hanging on UUA’s headquarters building in support of same-sex marriage were visible signs of the Association’s increasingly effective public witness program. The Pew Research Foundation, for example, he said, links to only two religious websites on the topic: on the religious right, the Christian Coalition, and on the progressive side, the Unitarian Universalist Association. The topic, he noted, falls perfectly into the public witness strategic plan, with solid justification on grounding, fit, and opportunity.

The next major public witness initiative will be the April March on Washington for reproductive rights. Response to the call for voter registration and voter turnout work has been extensive and enthusiastic; we are developing partnerships not only with traditional allies like the Interfaith Alliance, but also with the National Council of Churches and the Earth Day Network. Included in the February congregational mailing will be a resource from Advocacy and Witness under the label “Faithful Democracy.” Sinkford said that on January 22 he would be in Washington to meet with partners in the voter participation effort and to participate in a press conference to announce the “Faithful Democracy” coalition.

He announced that in November he attended the NAACP’s Religious Leadership Summit in Atlanta, the first time a president of the Association has been invited to participate in that annual event.
The growth of Unitarian Universalism remains a high priority for this administration and has been named top priority by the Board of Trustees. An increasing number of metropolitan growth conversations have begun and are being supported with staff presence. The new start in Dallas/Forth Worth is on schedule for opening worship next fall and “Pathways Church, a Unitarian Universalist religious community” is receiving recognition in the local press. Demand for the “Uncommon Denomination” marketing materials continues strong. This fall a new Growth Team has begun, convened by Harlan Limpert. The team’s charge is to frame broad growth strategies and to identify those leverage points where modest changes can result in significant growth.

In December, Sinkford said, he traveled to the Vatican for a meeting of Religions for Peace. The gathering included the presence of two drafters of the Geneva Accord.

The President reported that he had asked Diane Olson to represent him at the British General Assembly this spring and said that he was in close communication with Charlie Clements, new President of the Unitarian Universalist Service Committee. He said that he had met with the YRUU Steering Committee to discuss the possibility of a new “Common Ground” gathering to review the YRUU structure and the issues that are present in our ministry to and with youth.

The invitation to congregational presidents to attend the Long Beach General Assembly with free registration was extended in the January/February issue of the UU World magazine. It will also be included in the February congregational mailing. A priority setting process will be conducted with the congregational presidents that is hoped will shape the direction of the Association for the next four years.

Rosemary Bray McNatt has been asked to preach for the Service of the Living Tradition at the 2004 General Assembly. Some of the Kansas City advertising materials will be used at Long Beach to invite members of the community to join those attending General Assembly for Sunday worship in the convention center.

Sinkford noted that the fiscal year ’05 budget maintains our commitments to Association priorities but said that income for ’05 is predicted to be down again. He expressed increased confidence that the $32,000,000 goal for the capital campaign would be achieved by the time of General Assembly.

EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT'S REPORT

Kay Montgomery, Executive Vice President, reported that a search was underway for the new Director of District Services and that the interview team would include her, the President, a member of the Board’s Administrative, Organization and Personnel Committee, a representative of the District Presidents’ Association, and a member of the District Staff. Staff salaries and grades for staff salaries were, she said, being reviewed and assessed.
In the Stewardship and Development Staff Group, Terry Sweetser has been appointed Acting Vice President for a six-month period, with an assessment to be made at the end of that time about whether it was reasonable for him to provide management for the staff group while continuing his extraordinary fund raising successes. She said that the staff group had been reorganized within the last few months, with the Annual Program Fund continuing to do well, Friends income up, charitable giving and estate planning strong, and the capital campaign seeming to be on target to be concluded by June. She noted that there would be three opportunities for giving at General Assembly: the traditional collection for ministerial support at the Service of the Living Tradition, a collection for the local-area GA service project at the Sunday “seeker” service, and an opportunity to support the creation of the new religious education curriculum during a plenary session. Montgomery noted that funds for the banners in support of same-sex marriage, currently hanging on the 25 Beacon Street building, were raised within a few hours by Beth Graham.

SECRETARY’S REPORT

Wayne Arnason, Secretary, reported on the electronic certification process, begun this year and, thus far, seeming to be successful. He said that there appeared to be Moderator petitions for no candidates other than Gini Courter. Additionally, he distributed a document proposing changes to the charge of the Election Campaign Practices Committee and it was agreed that the Board would discuss those proposed changes at the April Board meeting.

BEACON PRESS REPORT

Helene Atwan, Director of Beacon Press, reported on recent Beacon books and acquisitions.

FINANCIAL ADVISOR’S REPORT

Larry Ladd, Financial Advisor, reported on financial matters for the Association, saying that the fiscal year is projected to end the year balanced, that Beacon Press is ahead of plan for the second year in a row, and that endowment investment performance continues to be very positive. He said that investment results for the first quarter of fiscal year ’04 were strong, resulting in a 3.7% return. Ladd concluded by pointing out that Beacon Press remains a financial risk and that the Association needs to prepare for changes coming from the Sarbanes-Oxley Act.

REPORT OF THE LIVING OUR FAITH WORKING GROUP
Members of the Living Our Faith Working Group reported on their discussions. They announced the change of their name from the Justice Working Group.

They recommended that the Board craft an overall policy on appropriate Board response to issues of public social concerns that includes language similar to their January 2003 statement, “We call on the elected leadership of our congregations to provide and safeguard the sacred space where we can continue to discuss, better understand, and debate public policy. This is how UUs maintain community with one another.” It was agreed that such language would come to the Board at the time of their April meeting. They expressed their appreciation to individual board members, staff, and congregational members for their commitment to be present and bear witness in Washington on April 24-25 for the Rally for Women’s Rights.

They described their meeting with members of the Journey Toward Wholeness Transformation Committee and recommended that the charge for this committee be continued as currently written and that the focus for the next two years be on the assessment portion of the mission statement.

Members of the working group reported on their discussion with Devorah Greenstein, Accessibilities Program Associate, concerning accessibilities issues. They asked that the Best Practices Committee assess accessibilities at board meetings and that every notice of board meetings announce the degree of accessibility and the procedures by which special requests are made.

JOURNEY TOWARD WHOLENESS TRANSFORMATION COMMITTEE REPORT

Kim Varney and Sofia Craethnenn, members of the Journey Toward Wholeness Transformation Committee, reported on the work of that committee.

ADMINISTRATIVE, ORGANIZATION AND PERSONNEL COMMITTEE REPORT

Ed Wilde, Chair of the Administrative, Organization and Personnel Committee, reported on that committee’s decision that individuals cannot be on the Board and be employed by the Association simultaneously and that once an employee accepts a position on the staff of the Association he or she must resign from the Board of Trustees.

He said that the following was the charge to the Best Practices Committee:

Further goals will be to frame a context, as well as specific policy and rules, to guide the Board and its committees in achieving a level of openness that will enhance trust, right relationship, and accountability within the UUA. The Task Force will also determine the best way to foster a fruitful discussion about openness among congregational delegates at GA 2004 in Long Beach.
