And in thankfulness for the ministry of so many men and women whose years of faithful service to our congregations and our movement could perhaps be counted, but whose spiritual influence is beyond measure;

And in appreciation for the steady stream of congregational pastors, community ministers, preachers, prophets, religious educators, spiritual directors, historians, theologians, denominational leaders, teachers, writers, innovators, justice makers and gadflies who have been grounded in ministry through their study at Starr King;

And in anticipation of the next hundred years of service to our movement and beyond;

The Board of Trustees of the Unitarian Universalist Association does hereby greet, salute, congratulate, honor and applaud the Teachers, Students, Staff, Trustees and Benefactors of the Starr King School for the Ministry.
PRESIDENT’S REPORT

President William Sinkford reported on the work of the Growth Team, saying that that team had identified four leverage points where minor changes could well yield large results: 1) bringing leaders of our growing congregations together to learn from, support, and inspire one another, and to collect those learnings so they can be shared; 2) increased support for small group ministry; 3) increased support for multi-racial families, families of color, and family ministry in general; and 4) resource development on hospitality.

He reported that conversations have begun with the Unitarian Universalist Service Committee about a deeper level of collaboration and partnership and that there is a plan to employ a consultant to review the work of the UUA and the UUSC in order to identify ways in which the partnership could be expanded and the common work deepened. Additionally, the President suggested that the Board would be the appropriate place for leadership in convening a new Common Ground process for youth programming.
