Envoy Program

Envoys represent the UU United Nations Office within their local congregation. They connect their congregation to the UU United Nations Office by promoting UN and UU-UNO program initiatives. Envoys also bring local concerns to the attention of our Office so we can advocate for congregational concerns on a global level.

Youth Envoys are in high school and maintain communication links between the UU-UNO and the Envoy's Youth Group. We encourage Youth Envoys to attend our annual Intergenerational Spring Seminar and to be active in planning their congregation's UN Sunday. Through this program, youth have access to opportunities for leadership, learning, social action, and community building.

Envoy Responsibilities

- Raise awareness of UN issues & UU-UNO programs
- Publicize and participate in events and activities offered by the UU-UNO and the UN, including the Intergenerational Spring Seminar.
- Encourage financial support of the UU-UNO – Individuals and congregations can be supporter!.
- Advocate for creating and maintaining an international perspective within your congregation.
- Lead a UN Sunday once a year
- Make your congregation a Blue Ribbon Congregation

BLUE RIBBON CONGREGATIONS

Strengthen support for the UU-UNO by helping your congregation achieve Blue Ribbon Status by:

1. Having an Envoy, Youth Envoy, or Envoy Team
2. Holding an annual UN Sunday Service
3. Having 5% of the individuals in your congregation contributing to the UU-UNO
4. Making an annual commitment to give the UU-UNO a budget line or share a collection plate

In return, your congregation will be recognized for its steadfast dedication to international human rights and receive:

- A reception in your honor at UUA General Assembly or CUC Annual Conference & Meeting
- Formal recognition on our website
- An award plaque to display in your congregation
